The lawful basis on which we process your personal data

The law requires that we provide you with information about the lawful basis on which we process your personal data, and for what purpose(s).

Most commonly, we will process your data on the following lawful grounds:

- Where it is necessary to perform the contract we have entered into with you.
- Where it is necessary to comply with a legal obligation.
- Where it is necessary for the performance of a task in the public interest.

- Where it is necessary for our legitimate interests (or those of a third party), and your interests and fundamental rights do not override those interests.

We may also use your personal data, typically in an emergency, where this is necessary to protect your vital interests, or someone else's vital interests. In a small number of cases where other lawful bases do not apply, we will process your personal data on the basis of your consent.

How we apply further protection in the case of "Special Categories" of personal data

"Special categories" of particularly sensitive personal information require higher levels of protection. We need to have further justification for collecting, storing and using this type of personal information.

The Special Categories of personal data consist of data revealing:

- Racial or ethnic origin;
- Political opinions;
- Religious or philosophical beliefs;
- Trade union membership.

They also consist of the processing of:

- Genetic data;
- Biometric data for the purpose of uniquely identifying someone;
- Data concerning health;

We may process special categories of personal data in the following circumstances:

Less commonly, we may process this type of information where it is needed in relation to legal claims or where it is needed to protect your interests (or someone else's interests) and you are not capable of giving your consent, or where you have already made the information public.

Criminal convictions and allegations of criminal activity

Further legal controls apply to data relating to criminal convictions and allegations of criminal activity. We may process such data on the same grounds as those identified for "special categories" referred to above.

Personal data that you provide to us and the possible consequences of you not providing it

Most personal data that you provide to us is processed by us in order that we, and you, can each fulfil our contractual obligations and/or comply with obligations imposed by law. For example:

The consequences for any failure to provide such data will depend on the particular circumstances. For example, a failure to provide the relevant financial information will mean that we are unable to process any payment from you and may not be able to enter into the relevant contract with you. A failure to provide accurate organisation and purpose details for events may mean that we choose not to enter into the relevant contract with you, or that an event in progress is not permitted to continue.
